
SUMMARY OF MAIN ARTICLES IN ENGLISH

“PEOPLE ARE THE ROOT” VIEWPOINT IN THE DOCUMENT OF THE 13TH PARTY CONGRESS

*Tran Hong Luu

People are always the origin of nations. People are the root of the country. The country must take the people as its root. That lesson is forever true for any nation. The Communist Party of Vietnam has always well recognized this notion from its beginning to the present. This article outlines the role of the people according to Ho Chi Minh's thought and the Documents of the Party Congress; and proposes the main solutions to create a close relationship between the people and the Party as the spirit of the Document of the XIII Congress to bring our country to sustainable development in accordance with the set goals.

HUMAN RIGHTS-BASED APPROACH AND ITS APPLICATION IN HUMAN DEVELOPMENT RESEARCH

*Pham Thi Tinh

The human rights-based approach of the United Nations is based on the conceptual framework of international human rights standards. This method pays equal attention to the content of activities as well as the method of implementation; the rights-bearers as well as the responsibility holders. The objective is to promote and protect the human rights and human dignity of everybody on the basis of equality, nondiscrimination, and care for the marginalized and those most at risk. The article focuses on clarifying the values of the human rights-based approach and its application to human development research, the shortcomings, and ways to overcome it to reduce inequality in rights in reality. From there, it is affirmed that this approach helps to strengthen the capacity of actors, for the sake of people, to protect human dignity and rights.

The study used the method of synthesis and analysis of literature.

THE PROBLEM OF IMPOVERISHMENT AMONG WORKERS AND LABORERS IN THE CONTEXT OF THE COVID-19 PANDEMIC

Nhac Phan Linh

*Le Thi Huyen Trang**

The Covid-19 pandemic has caused profound impacts on workers and laborers in both employment and life. The manifestations of the process of impoverishment under the

* PhD.; University of Economics, The University of Da Nang.

 PhD.; Institute of Human Studies, Vietnam Academy of Social Sciences.

 PhD.; Institute of Workers and Trade Unions.

* MA.; Institute of Workers and Trade Unions.

impact of the pandemic among them, especially among urban workers, industrial zones workers, migrant workers, and informal workers are increasing. The article introduces an overview of the situation of workers and laborers in general; the negative impacts of the Covid-19 pandemic on jobs and the lives of workers and laborers in particular; difficulties that need to be overcome and improved for the labor force and some solutions to promote the labor market and jobs in the new situation.

DEVELOPING COMMUNITY-BASED TOURISM IN ASSOCIATION WITH PEOPLE'S LIVELIHOODS ON CU LAO CHAM ISLAND, QUANG NAM PROVINCE IN THE CURRENT CONTEXT

*Bui Van Tuan**

Sea and island tourism currently accounts for about 70% of the activities of Vietnam's tourism industry and is increasingly becoming a new trend and driving force, playing a particularly important position in the tourism development strategy, making a fundamental contribution to the development of tourism and make it become a key economic sector of Vietnam. In particular, the development of community-based tourism along the coasts and islands has brought opportunities to alleviate poverty, create more jobs, improve the lives of the people here, contribute to the development of many other economic activities, ensure national defense and security, and protect the marine environment. Research results show that community-based tourism attracts increasing participation of coastal and island people, not only changing people's consciousness in preserving, embellishing, and promoting the traditional cultural values but also promoting their livelihood transformation. However, besides the positive impacts, the development of community-based tourism on Cu Lao Cham island in Quang Nam province currently has many limitations, creating many challenges and problems for the island's population. Therefore, to develop community-based tourism, it is necessary to be associated with people's livelihoods in more effective ways in the current context.

* PhD.; Institute of Vietnamese Studies and Development Sciences, Vietnam National University, Hanoi.